

You are invited to:

Managing Environmental Change at the Rural-Urban Fringe

A conference to disseminate the findings of the research project Managing Environmental Change at the Rural-Urban fringe (MECRUF)

At: Millennium Point, Birmingham, B4 7XG

On: 29th February, 2012- coffee will be available from 9:30am, conference runs 10:00 am - 4:30pm

Have you ever wondered about those spaces where town meets country? These spaces are among the most treasured yet poorly understood places within the UK. This conference is the culmination of 18 months of research to examine three fundamental questions: How is this “rural-urban fringe” changing, and why? And how can we more effectively understand and manage change in places of such uncertainty, diversity and transition?

The day will consist of:

Video presentations - a preview of the web accessible policy brief videos from the project.

A chance to play RUFopoly - an interactive exhibit giving users a chance to construct their vision for the development of RUFshire.

Key note speakers (details tbc)

Discussion-led plenary sessions

The conference will be broadcast worldwide through CISCO.

Places are available on request, please confirm ASAP to avoid disappointment.

Contact benstonyer@davidjarvis.biz for further information and to book a place.

Stalls are available for hire to organisations during the day, for further information please contact: benstonyer@davidjarvis.biz