Business, law or social sciences at BCU: what makes our degrees unique?

What makes studying a business, law or social sciences degree at Birmingham City University unique? In this presentation, students will explore the range of degree programmes and specialist pathways available within these subject areas. More importantly, they will learn about the fantastic opportunities at BCU to enhance their employability, develop transferable skills and support their career prospects.

ACCOUNTING AND FINANCE

Show me the money: courses and careers in accounting

This session will give students an insight into the differences between accounting and finance and some of the exciting career opportunities that exist within these fields. Students will engage in practical activities that will give them a flavour of both the accounting and finance functions in the real world.

Careers in the financial sector: how a finance degree can help

Some of the top paid roles in the UK are those within the financial sector. In this mini lecture students will be exposed to various careers available in the financial sector. They will participate in a number of activities to understand financial technology, how trading floors operate and the risk involved in these roles. Finally, we will look at finance degrees offered at BCU that prepare students for a career in finance.

Session dates are negotiable. For further information or to book, please get in touch via www.bcu.ac.uk/schools-and-colleges

How is Islamic finance different to conventional finance?

The Islamic finance industry is a fast-growing industry that has developed rapidly within a few years from a niche industry to a global force to be reckoned with in the international arena. This lecture will explain the workings of the Islamic finance industry and students will gain knowledge of the career opportunities available in this interesting field.

BUSINESS

What constitutes good leadership?

When you think of the term 'leadership', what qualities come to mind? This question seems simple, yet it continues to puzzle business professionals, as there is little understanding regarding the circumstances under which good leadership occurs. In this lecture, we will explore classification systems that attempt to identify the main characteristics of leadership; looking at leadership as a trait to a process. We will also look at the different connotations of 'leadership' and 'management' but how, in reality, both are vitally significant for a modern organisation to be successful.

ECONOMICS

How investment creates wealth

This mini lecture explains the importance of investment onto future wealth - both at a macroeconomic and individual person's level. It explains how a young individual can secure financial freedom through carefully planned investment strategy.

Where can an economics degree take you?

This mini lecture looks at what type of job opportunities are available to economics graduates and discusses graduate destinations of recent BCU economics alumni.

Why economics in times of crisis?

This mini lecture explores the meaning and relevance of economics in tackling global challenges facing societies today. It discusses the link between economics and sustainability and how diversity matters for economic thinking.
