

M.Ed Learning and
Teaching in HE

M.Ed Academic Practice

Embedding Employability in Your Practice

Who is this course for?

Academic and student support staff in Higher Education.

What do you have to do?

- You will attend 6 face-to-face (full day) workshops over the 3-4 month period of one semester.
- You will complete on-line activities using Moodle and Mahara
- You will contribute to a peer group of other participants to share learning, gain feedback and perspective (and module evaluation shows this to be one of the most valuable aspects of the module).
- Produce a 5000 word (equivalent) portfolio (variety of formats possible)

What will you get?

This is a Masters module worth 30 credits and will contribute towards the award of PG Cert; PG Dip and M.ED

Learning outcomes

- critically review an area of academic or professional provision of your choice to enhance the employability of your students / stakeholders.
- create a highly developed informed action plan to demonstrate continuing professional development and augment your employability profile
- make explicit and effective use of feedback

When is it?

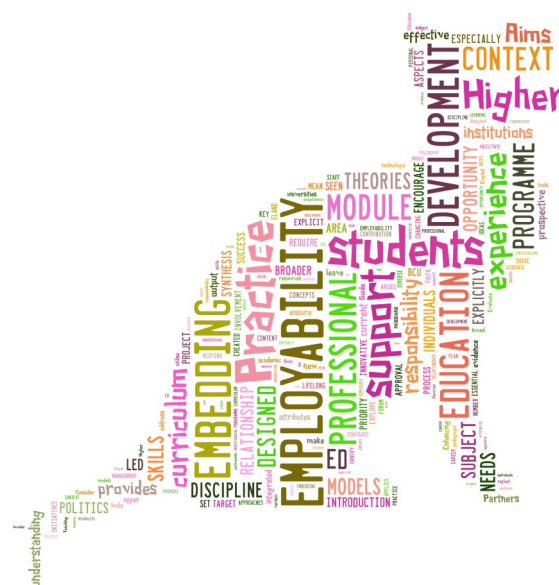

| | |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| Monday 29 th Sept 2014 | Monday 24 th Nov 2014 |
| Monday 13 th Oct 2014 | and Monday 8 th Dec 2014 |
| Monday 3 rd Nov 2014 | Monday 19 th Jan 2015 |

Centre for Enhancement of Learning and Teaching

What does the course offer?

It provides a forum for you to experience, reflect and share ideas about your own employability and your contribution - via your professional practice – to the employability of your students and will include:

- Employability in context
- Researching the destinations and / or movements of graduates and / or staff
- Using and reviewing technology to enhance and assist employability
- Effective employer/stakeholder engagement
- Curriculum design for effective personal and professional development of students
- Managing your own personal and professional development

How do you find out more?

Click here or contact Ruth.Lawton@bcu.ac.uk.

